

This series of pandemic pick-me-up cards is designed to be lighthearted and fun. At a time where it is easy to take the negative emotions of the pandemic and channel them into art, I chose to try to find a way to make art that would lift the mood of those struggling through the pandemic. I began this process with a series of watercolor illustrations on top of photographs that I had taken, however, as applying watercolor to watercolor paper that had already been printed on with ink proved to be more frustrating than enjoyable, my idea evolved into a project that I could actually find joy in doing. Keeping with the idea of watercolor illustrations, I turned to something that I do often and find great joy in doing: making greeting cards. Not only did I thoroughly enjoy the process, but I designed these pieces, though they are simple, to bring a smile to people's faces.

Artist's Statement: Yasmine Wazni

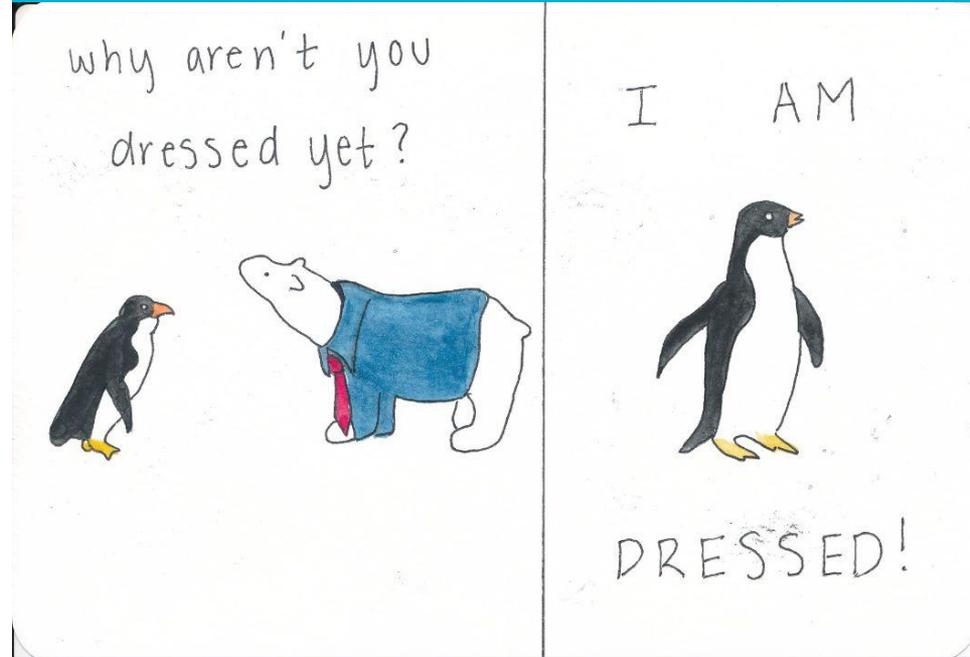

Sweet Day

Watercolor & Pen
6in x 4in

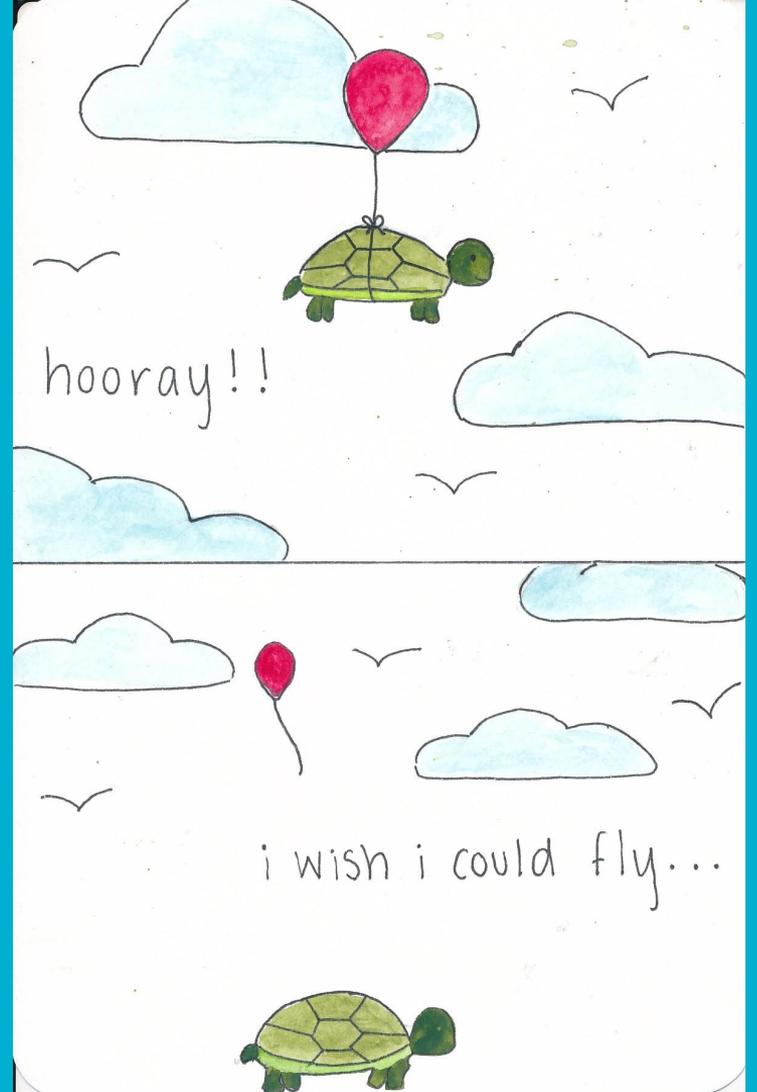

Proper Penguin

Watercolor & Pen
6in x 4in

Dream of Flight

Watercolor & Pen
6in x 4in

Elephant Sorrow

Watercolor & Pen
6in x 4in

Hide and Seek

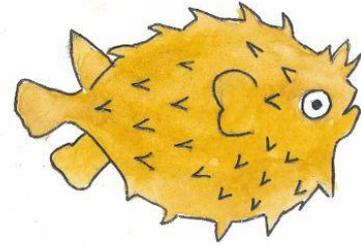

Watercolor & Pen
6in x 4in

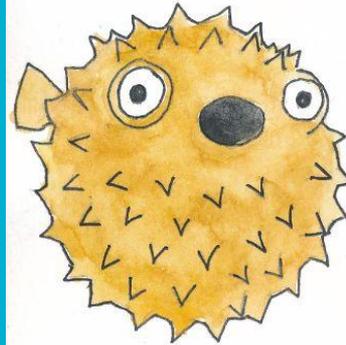

Puffer Surprise

Watercolor & Pen
6in x 4in

aww...

no one remembered my birthday surprise!

AHH!!!

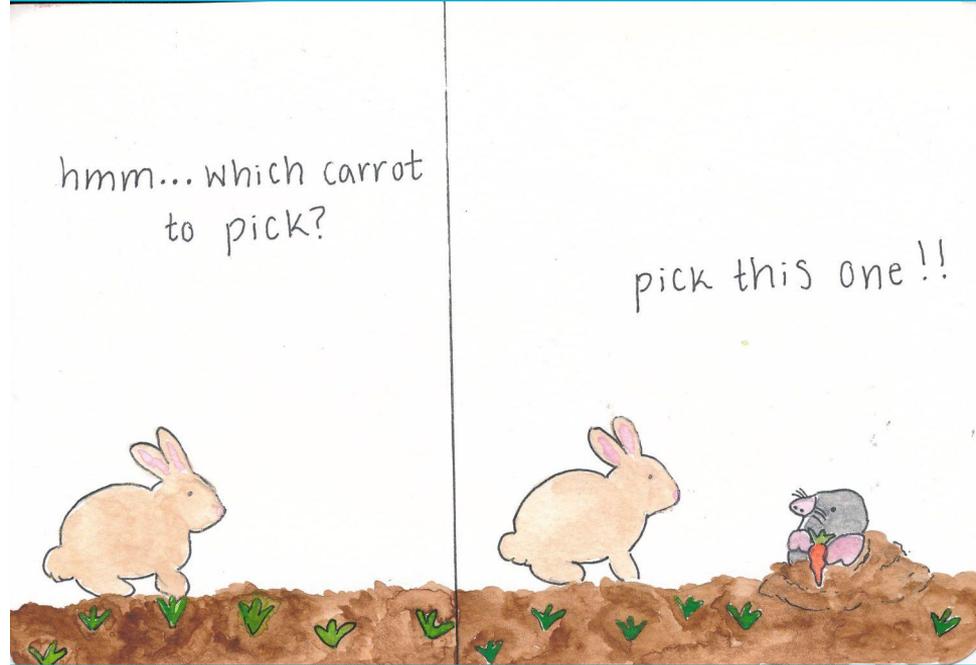

Faster Ride

Watercolor & Pen
6in x 4in

The Perfect Carrot

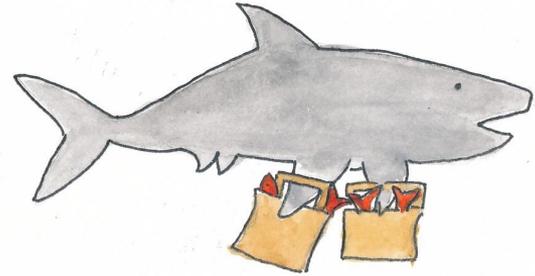

Watercolor & Pen
6in x 4in

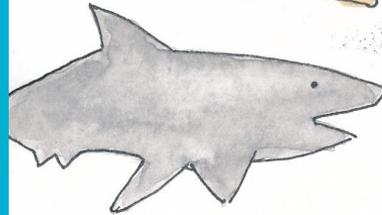

Full Fins

Watercolor & Pen
6in x 4in

so heavy...

let me help

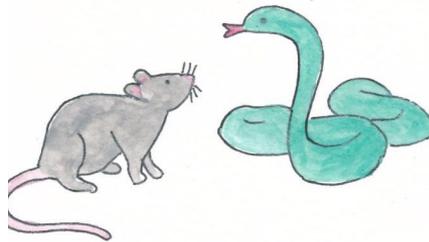

thanks!

Tight Hug

Watercolor & Pen
6in x 4in

are you going to eat me?

no.

hug you.

Little Joey, Little Duck

Watercolor & Pen
6in x 4in

Splendid Shade

Watercolor & Pen
6in x 4in

so hot...

so sunny...

does this help?

yay shade!

